

With over 20 years of comprehensive experience in law enforcement and professional training, Adam is an accomplished instructor recognized for his expertise in leadership, wellness, tactical operations, and law enforcement training.

Currently a Captain with the New Hampshire Police Standards and Training Council, Adam heads the Professional Development Bureau, where he guides statewide and academy training programs, oversees record and learning management systems, and implements wellness initiatives and policy improvements. His responsibilities also include managing budgets for training contracts with third-party vendors, coordinating forward-facing media platforms, and ensuring that all training meets state and council standards.

Adam's background is marked by substantial operational experience. As a former Sergeant/Operations Commander with the Belmont Police Department, he supervised patrol operations, critical incident response, and community outreach initiatives. His dedication to public safety has been recognized with multiple distinguished unit awards and "Officer of the Year" honors, underscoring his commitment to excellence in policing.

An advocate for physical fitness and wellness education, Adam has been a certified CrossFit Trainer since 2015. His active police instructor certifications also include but not limited to Response to Active Shooter, Integrating Communications, Assessment, and Tactics (ICAT), Active Bystandership for Law Enforcement (ABLE), and Valor for Blue wellness programs. His tactical experience is further highlighted by his years with the Belknap Regional Special Operations Group, where he served as both Operator and Assistant Team Leader from 2006 to 2017, handling high-stakes tactical responses, training and threat assessments.

Adam's academic credentials include associate and bachelor degrees in business and a Master of Public Administration from Anna Maria College. He has also completed advanced leadership training, such as the FBI LEEDA Trilogy, Collaborative Leadership Certificate and the Emerging Leaders Program through Primex of New Hampshire, equipping him with a forward-thinking approach to law enforcement leadership training.

Through his multifaceted experience, Adam is dedicated to providing high-quality, mission-ready and leader-oriented training that equips officers to excel in today's complex policing environment.